tain villages that were cut off from the outside world.

A shocking report from a Chinese news agency cited a sobering fear that the final casualty count will be in the thousands, making the freak storm one of the worst disasters to hit China in this century.

The report said countless homes and buildings were demolished and that scores of junks and barges on the Yangtze River were driven to the bottom under the enormous weight of tons of hailstones that bombarded the area for almost an hour.

"The full scope of this terrible catastrophe won't be known for many weeks because of the inaccessibility of many of the hardest hit areas," the report quoted one high-ranking official as saying.

"We have received word that in these villages, the dead are being incinerated in mass bonfires to prevent the spreading of disease," the unnamed official revealed.

Many villages in the low lands of Hubei province north of Wuhan were washed from the face of the earth as the hail that covered the upper elevations melted and spawned enormous flash floods that channeled down without warning, the report said.

"The emergency resources of the entire nation have been mustered to bring help to the stricken areas," a Health Ministry official declared. "But it seems what we can do is woefully inadequate."

When a military rescue squad reached the demolished village of Hongshih three days after the disaster, they found an infant girl huddled to a tree trunk.

The baby was still alive, but the young mother — who had hastily shoved out the terrified girl with her bare hands, put her child inside then covered the opening with her own body — was battered to pieces by the hellish onslaught of hail.

"There have been many such stories of unselfish heroism," the news agency reported. "It is just such bravery that will enable our people to

WW2's most bizarre secret revealed after half a century

Adolf Hitler was a woman!

By BEATRICE DEXTER

An East German historian exploded a bombshell at a conference last month by announcing he had documents written by one of Adolf Hitler's closest aides — and they revealed the Fuhrer was a woman!

Claus Nicholas Von Stempfer of Wittenberg, East Germany, said he obtained secret journals kept by Rudolf Hess from a former friend of the German war criminal.

The diaries include entries describing Hitler's bizarre physical abnormalities and show the Nazi leader took to bride them, the retired professor of history said.

"Hess was a close friend and political ally of the Nazi leader for years and he privately recorded much intimate information about him," Von Stempfer said. "He describes Hitler as a genetic female who took male hormones.

"The fact was a closely guarded secret known only to Hess, Hitler's female companion Eva Braun, the Fuhrer's physician and trusted servants. It explains much about Hitler that has remained mysterious and puzzling. I am convinced the diaries are genuine."

Shocked docs discovered he had female organs

According to Hess and others quoted in the journals, Hitler was born with severe physical abnormalities that concealed his true sex. He was raised as a boy, but while he was being treated for war wounds received in 1918, doctors discovered he was genetically female.

Hitler, then 27 years old, was distraught over the finding and elected to live as a man in spite of his true sex. He was given injections of male hormones for the rest of his life, but he still remained essentially female.

"He apparently was born with ovaries, a womb and malformed sex organs," Von Stempfer said. "He was regularly treated with testosterone and other hormones to give him a more masculine appearance.

"But his voice remained high-pitched, his mustache was skimpy and he was slight and feminine in body build. He retained a woman's intuition and ability to understand and manipulate others.

"He married, but only at the end of his life and only for appearances. He could not have normal sexual relations and he would certainly never produce children."

In his journal, Hess described Hitler's extensive library on sexual abnormalities. He complained about his leader's obsession with a "cure" for his bizarre problem.

Hess revealed that the Fuhrer maintained a team of 14 doctors working full-time on perfecting sex-change surgery in the hope he could one day be made physically male.

"In this day of sex-change operations, Hitler would have become a transsexual," Von Stempfer said. "But in his own time he was doomed to live as a misfit — a fact that explains much about his psychological makeup.

"He was a freak obsessed by the idea of creating a race of physically perfect humans. If he couldn't conquer his own problem, he would conquer the world."

Von Stempfer plans to publish excerpts of the journals later this year.

DEAD AT A DOORNAIL and still on a board, Pull defies gravity, at right, with the help of Suzanne Flemming. Below, Suzanne's dead mutt has a much more lively look.

. . . will melt your heart

Pull, the cute, cuddly sheepdog, is just about the perfect pet, but then you wouldn't expect much trouble from a dog that's been dead for four years.

"He was like a child to us," said housewife Suzanne Flemming of Medina, Wash.

Suzanne and her husband Bob decided they would have Pull, a Hungarian sheepdog, freeze-dried after his death in 1984.

"It's sort of like Pull is still alive because of all the laughs he gets," Suzanne said of her unusual pet.

She recalled once when they took the freeze-dried dog along on a trip to the shore and left him in the backseat while they went sailing. Later, they asked a friend to let Pull out.

"Larry kept whistling, 'Come here, boy,' then took a closer look and said, 'Uh, Bob, I think you might have left your dog in the car too long. He's out cold.'

"We were in tears we were laughing so hard," Suzanne said.

Cops hear kids' stories of day care nightmare!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Grisly tales of satanic sacrifices, rape and other abuses at a day nursery have terrorized a tiny Colorado town.

One frightened youngster described the decapitation of a small boy by hooded adults and a 4-year-old girl told of eerie rituals in a room filled with the evil trappings of the devil.

"We have received some shocking stories from five of the kids who attended the day-care home," said Sheriff Bob Jones. "If they're true, bad things have been going on here."

Sheriff Jones said no headless body has been discovered and no charges have been filed against anyone.

"If we have a group of devil worshipers who are preying on little children, we will get to the bottom of it," said the sheriff.

The nursery was operated by Hazel Riggs, 67, who voluntarily surrendered her license after being questioned by authorities.

The gruesome stories of death and sexual abuse came to light when parents of five children took them to child psychologists for therapy.

"I completely deny all these charges and have no knowledge of any of these things," Mrs. Riggs wrote in a letter to state licensing administrator Elizabeth Keeler.

Sheriff Jones said he is having trouble keeping the town of 3,000 calm while he investigates the accusations.

"Someone drove by Mrs. Riggs' house and pumped three rifle shots in her front door," he said.

"She's been harassed by phone calls, threatened and

Top scientist makes amazing discovery about fabled monster

THE proof's in the tooth: Nessie is 6,000 years old, says expert.

Loch Ness mystery SOLVED!

By SAGAN DUNN

A leading scientist says the Loch Ness monster is a 6,000-year-old shark and he has one of the creature's teeth to prove it!

"The mystery of the Loch Ness monster is solved," Christian Bentz, the French oceanographer and adventurer, told reporters in Paris.

Giant creature is a freshwater shark more than 6,000 years old, says expert

"Nessie is a gigantic freshwater shark, probably the last of her breed. She's no spring chicken, either. We recovered one of her teeth and analysis shows it to be at least 6,000 years old."

The expert's report touched off a storm of controversy as dead rumorists rose to contest his findings.

One went so far as to call them "exaggerated" — until the Frenchman produced sonar readings and the giant shark's teeth to support his claims.

The sonar graphs reportedly show the outline of a wide-bodied fish with two pairs of mighty fins on its upper body.

As for the tooth itself, a computer projected that it came from the mouth of a shark that is at least 40 feet long.

"Nessie lost the tooth while attacking a deer that was swimming in the Loch," said Bentz. "She has incredible strength and power.

"She killed and consumed the deer — a big buck — in a couple of chomps. He never had a chance."

The scientist said that he and a handful of assistants started searching for Nessie in 1986 and first picked her up on sonar in May 1987.

They continued to get strong readings until January, when the monster suddenly began to elude their most sophisticated scanners.

Efforts to retrieve the creature have been hampered by equipment malfunctions and bad weather. But Bentz and his team hope to solve these problems and get back on Nessie's trail by September.

"She's down there," said Bentz. "Now all we have to do is find her.

only a fool would try to kill such a magnificent creature.

"All we really want are some good pictures and possibly a tissue sample. A single reel would open doors to research that was never dreamed possible.

"It would also prove that Nessie is still prowling Loch Ness — just as she has for the past 6,000 years."

German zoologist Karin Deuble refused to comment on Bentz's search for Nessie but confirmed that giant prehistoric sharks were netted off the coasts of Hawaii and California in 1976 and 1984.

Those specimens were about 15-feet long, she said. But it is possible that an even larger prehistoric shark, the 100-foot Carcharodon megalodon, still exists and might one day be found.

"We know so little about marine life," said the expert. "Carcharodon is just one of several large sharks that are presumed to be extinct, and yet might still be alive.

"We certainly cannot prove that they aren't."

Man cuts off his leg . . . with a chain saw

He was fed up dragging his useless limb around

By SUSAN HAMILTON

Phillip St. Pierre was sick of dragging his paralyzed foot around, cops say, so he arranged with his roommate to have the useless limb amputated — by chain saw!

Incredibly, the San Francisco man lay on a bed in his apartment while his friend Kurt Falkenhainer, 47, revved up a gasoline-powered saw and butchered his buddy's leg, according to police. Falkenhainer was later arrested and charged with mayhem and assault.

"They had a brand-new chain saw," San Francisco Police investigator Richard Atkins told The News. "They were both pretty high on prescription drugs and rum when they did it.

"When we arrived we found St. Pierre tied to the bed to stop him from bleeding to death. A makeshift bandage had been put on him by the transport, but there was a lot of blood and bone chips around. It wasn't too pretty, that's for sure."

Atkins said neighbors described St. Pierre, 30, as a person with mental problems who had told on occasion that he wanted his foot taken off. The man strapped his paralyzed lower leg up, Atkins said, even though doctors had told him the foot could be rehabilitated with therapy.

"He thought the foot was worse than it was," Atkins said. "He wanted it off, but the doctors wouldn't do it.

"He conspired with his roommate to amputate it because he knew that when he went to the hospital afterwards he would be taken care of." Falkenhainer called emergency medical workers after the "operation" and St. Pierre was rushed to a hospital, where he was in stable condition.

The chain saw was found later in a dumpster, but there was no trace of St. Pierre's amputated foot.

"The victim didn't want to press charges, so the state will do that," Atkins said. "Legally you can't consent to mayhem."

Falkenhainer faces from 10 to 15 years if convicted of the felony charges that were against him.

Honest man stuns cops when he turns in $100 bill he found

Stunned cops couldn't believe it when super honest Mitchell Prewitt turned in a $100 bill he found on the street.

"It's the most bizarre thing I've seen in eight years," said Mesquite, Texas, police detective Rick Mersky. "People just don't find U.S. currency and turn it in."

But Prewitt, a 28-year-old Xerox Corp. repairman, explained he was a Jehovah's Witness and wanted to do the right thing.

Prewitt said he could use the money, but had to turn it in because he had no choice in the matter.

"To be honest with you, my wife and I have a five-year wedding anniversary coming up Saturday," he said.

Gramps still dines with family 17 years after his death

The mummy who comes to dinner!

By SAGAN DUNN

Claude Fosset headed up his family's dinner table for 37 years — even though he was dead for the last 17!

"It sounds like something out of a horror movie, but the family actually shared dinner with a mummy," Police Sgt. Lee Gillet told reporters in Nancy, France.

"They propped the body up in a chair at the head of their table every night. They even served him dishes as if he were still alive."

The bizarre ritual came to light when a friend of the family told police that something strange was going on in the Fosset home, said Sgt. Gillet.

Catherine Fosset, the dead man's 83-year-old widow, initially refused to let investigators into the house. But when they threatened to get a search warrant, she reportedly told all.

According to Sgt. Gillet, cancer victim Claude Fosset in 1971. The family was quite wealthy. And they paid a mortician to retrieve the body from a hospital morgue and bring it back to their home.

"I'm told that the family's servants dressed the corpse in pajamas and robes at night and in regular street clothes by day," said the cop.

The family could be charged with improper disposal of a body but Sgt. Gillet said it is doubtful that any criminal papers will be filed.

How to make others secretly DO YOUR BIDDING with the astonishing power of # AUTOMATIC MIND COMMAND!

Here's how to get started in just 3 minutes . . .

Dear Friend:

New power is about to leap into your life . . . an astonishing way to control the thoughts and actions of others without their knowing it . . . so names how much they may now want to follow your commands, they carry them out in a "I"-every time!

With "Automatic Mind-Command" you'll be running the show. Make a wish, turn on The Power, and watch those around you drop everything and do what they're told.

And nobody will ever have the faintest idea that you're behind it all. That's the beauty of "Automatic Mind-Command"—you are the only one who knows what's going on—you alone decide when things should start . . . stop . . . change around.

CONTROL YOUR FRIENDS OR STRANGERS!

You can use it to control your friends or strangers, one at a time or in large numbers, at any time, and ANY WAY YOU LIKE.

For example. You go into a bank for a loan. The credit man smiles but says "Sorry. You don't qualify for a loan right now. However, if there's anything else I can do for you, I'd be glad to . . ." Then as a flash, his mind changes when you let loose your "Automatic Mind-Command." He continues, "In fact, we'll be glad to give you $3,000 more than you asked for. And pay you 2% more than we usually pay!"

Impossible? You'll be doing things like this every day without even thinking about it. As soon as you need something done, it's done! The people who do these things for you will remember what they did, but not why!

FUN POWER—TOO!

You can have a lot of fun with this power, too. Look how Evelyn C. used it at work . . . One day, while sorting papers, her boss angrily demanded why she had to make so much noise—and scolded her in front of everybody. Evelyn said nothing, but smiled to herself...for she had just tuned in the "Automatic Mind-Command . . ." Suddenly the boss apologized for being a scoundrel. "Please . . . I'm sorry," he said, in front of everybody. "I'd like to make it up to you!" And he told her what a wonderful person she was! When Evelyn turned the power off, the boss just stood there with an open mouth, wondering what made him say all those things.

Think what this power can mean in your life. You want money . . . and it's there! You want some affection . . . you'll be smothered! You want peace and quiet . . . the world sends silence!

NO MORE SECRETS WILL BE KEPT FROM YOU!

People who think they can hold back the facts will spill their guts to you! You don't have a little "Automatic Mind-Command" at them, and they'll sing like nightingales . . . Mary J. had to hit with and when she tried to find the money she'd put aside to pay the rent—it was gone. A frantic search through the house turned up nothing. There was only one possibility left . . . she asked Billy. A look of surprise crossed his face. No—he hadn't seen any money. But Mary didn't believe him, and started using "Automatic Mind-Command" to find out if he was telling the truth. Suddenly Billy reached into his pocket and took out a roll of money. After giving her the money, he acted as if nothing had happened!

Think how many secrets must be hidden at dinner time! Things your spouse won't tell . . . your neighbors won't say . . . your boss keeps quiet about . . . ALL BROUGHT INTO THE OPEN JUST FOR YOU! They'll tell you all their secrets, but they won't know why.

Hold on now, because I haven't told you yet about the best part of "Automatic Mind-Command."

You may have to hide your face to keep people from overwhelming you with love, gifts, favors, rewards! Perfect strangers will be walking up to you and asking, "How are you? Can I do anything for you?" They will never suspect that "Automatic Mind-Command" is compelling them to like you, please you . . . and automatically want to help you.

INSTANTLY YOUR LIFE IS CHANGED!

At first, I couldn't believe it. And yet I know this to be true from my own personal experience . . . time after time. For example . . .

A STRANGER HANDS ME $100—Harry O., a low-paid factory worker, wanted to open a business of his own. All he needed was cash to get started, but no one would give him the money. Finally someone told him how to use "Automatic Mind-Command" . . . and Harry immediately tried it. A short time later, a perfect stranger handed him $100—saying he'd heard about Harry's plan, and was eager to help him get started!

Unusual? Not at all . . . things happen every day with "Automatic Mind-Command."

RECEIVES $82,000 CASH QUICKLY!—Mrs. Thelma J. reports, "I needed money badly. Her husband hadn't worked in months, and their savings were running out. Then she discovered "Automatic Mind-Command"—and turned on the power immediately! The man repaying the received a package containing several hundred dollars. Now friends and well-wishers she never knew existed!

In all honesty, few indeed are the ones who have recognized "Automatic Mind-Command." The rest, who do not use it, pay the penalty in suffering, wishing, hoping, dreaming . . . Now I say to you: Wish no more!

Helen Wade's baby boy looked healthy enough, but inside the child's head was a time bomb, ticking away and threatening the infant's life.

Little George had a brain tumor that doctors diagnosed as a malignant growth. They didn't try to remove it because they believed he'd die anyway — yet its removal was the only thing that could save his life!

It seems that George's tumor was actually benign, but situated in a critical section of the brain where it threatened to kill the baby by blocking off a vital vein. Doctors discovered the mistake just in the nick of time, removed the growth and saved the little boy's life.

"I dread to think what would have happened to him if I hadn't gotten a second opinion," said the child's happy mom. "Now the people at the hospital are confident that George will lead a normal life, which is wonderful news."

Helen, who lives in Accrington, England, first noticed her baby boy was ailing when he was several months old. One night she couldn't wake him for his feeding and she knew immediately something was seriously wrong.

"I just couldn't get him to cuse aroused," she recalled. "His eyes seemed to have sunk into his head."

Helen rushed her child to a hospital where specialists conducted extensive tests. Finally they announced their findings: George had cancer of the brain and would die within weeks, they said.

"I just sat there staring at George," Helen said. "I couldn't believe that, suddenly, our normal, healthy baby was going to die.

"I kept thinking how I could tell my other children that their baby brother was dying and couldn't be saved."

But weeks and then months passed, and still George hung on. When he got no worse, Helen began to doubt the diagnosis.

She took her baby to another hospital, where more tests were run. This time doctors came up with a different diagnosis. They said George had a benign tumor of the brain and needed an operation.

"George was in surgery for hours while they removed the tumor and put a shunt into his head to drain fluid away from the brain to the stomach," Helen said. "I knew that he wasn't out of the woods yet — but at least he had a chance.

"All the time George was ill, he could have been treated. The sinister thing is he probably would have died anyway and we would have been none the wiser."

Now George is a healthy boy whose adorable mischief has left his loving family overjoyed.

"I honestly believed I was going to lose him," Helen said. "Having him healthy and happy is my fondest wish come true."

It's cauliflower in living color

Researchers have given the familiar white head of cauliflower a nutritious new look — and colored it orange.

By crossing a dwarf, orange-colored mutant with an ordinary white cauliflower, scientists at Cornell University produced a new hybrid variety that is large, tasty and bright orange.

And the new variety is 100 times richer than normal white cauliflower as a source of vitamin A.

It also is low in calories, high in dietary fiber, vitamin C and potassium, remarkably rich in iron and is a source of natural cancer-blocking agents.

Woman shot to death as nurse listens on phone

Apparently distraught over his wife's cocaine habit, cops said William Henderson murdered her while he talked on the phone to a drug-treatment nurse.

"The nurse said she heard a 'pop' and the man said, 'Darn, I missed. I'll get her this time.' Then there was another pop, and the man said, 'Darn, I missed her,'" said a hospital spokesman in St. Louis, Missouri.

Cops rushed to the Henderson home to find Rebecca Henderson, 31, dead of a rifle wound in the chest.

Henderson, 36, was found unconscious in the house and rushed to a hospital in critical condition. Police said he had known substance. A man had called the drug and alcohol treatment center at St. Anthony's Medical Center twice before the shooting and complained about his wife's cocaine habit, said hospital spokesman William Peuster. The second time he said he was going to kill her he had a rifle in his wife and was going to shoot her, said Peuster.

Sheriff Walter Buerger said a man called his office later and said he had shot his wife and was going to kill himself. He asked police to take care of the couple's two young sons.

STOLEN KID FOUND!

By PETE COOKE

A bizarre kidnapping ended when Christopher Elias was reunited with his family four years after he was abducted, according to cops who tracked down the missing boy.

"I never gave up hope, never," said Christopher's mother, Connie Elias, when the family was brought back together at the sheriff's office in Victorville, Calif.

"We are very relieved," the tearful mom said after seeing her son for the first time in four years. "He's alive and well."

Sheriff's detectives got a break in the case and located Christopher, now 17, the only contact that has largely had with the missing teenager was the phone call 4 years. Mrs. Elias said her son would call, she'd answer and hang up.

Detective Dan Sharp said Christopher was abducted in July 1984 from a bikeride by April in Southern California. Christopher's father, Jim Hall, and the parents of 4 Bear Lake and tracked leading a boat to Patrick McCleary.

"The day Mr. Leary received a boat from them and that was the last they saw of him or their son," Det. Sharp said.

Sharp said McCleary drove the 13-year-old to his home in Apple Valley in the Mojave Desert and put him to work as a paving clerk.

"Christopher didn't go to school for the entire four years," Sharp said.

The big break in the case came when an anonymous tipster called Mrs. Elias and gave her a phone number where her son could supposedly be reached.

"It was in Apple Valley somewhere but it turned out to be bogus," Sharp said. "I felt that someone was trying to tell us something and started checking out hotels and businesses in Apple Valley with the same phone number prefix."

Sharp arrested McCleary, 41, when he found Jim and Christopher in a camping trailer.

McCleary pleaded guilty to child stealing charges and was sentenced to four years. He is still facing charges of kidnapping, Sharp said.

"My bodyguard went in to take a shower," recalls Brooke. "He came out and told me that George Michael had just walked into the dressing room. I couldn't believe it. I'd had a crush on him for a long time and when I went on the Johnny Carson show I had said he was the person I most wanted to meet."

"The doctors said all the excitement was just more than her heart could stand," grieving Julian Horton told reporters in Hoorl Australia.

"It was going to be the start of our new life together. I never dreamed it would end so sadly."

Sophisticated Wendy had already suffered more than her share of tragedy. She was afflicted with Friedreich's ataxia, a rare genetic ailment that had left her confined to a wheelchair for the past eight years.

"It was a real heartbreaker for [redacted] and all of us when she came down with her disease," said her shocked mom Vi.

She was afraid she'd been cheated out of the love she'd always wanted.

But when she met Julian all that changed. He gave her courage and hope, and he gave her the determination to face the future.

The Hoorlstruck couple spent their two-year engagement planning their wedding and saving money to pay for a romantic honeymoon in Singapore.

"Wendy never let anything get her down," recalled social worker Julian.

"She knew exactly what she wanted and she got it. And she had a brilliant sense of humor — always laughing, always smiling. It was very rare to share that with her. I looked forward to sharing things with her for a long time to come."

On their wedding day, the two lovebirds arrived at the park in a horse-drawn carriage.

Scores of friends and kin were there to greet them.

"You look so beautiful, Wendy," whispered friend Kath Bond.

"I'm not beautiful. I'm just so happy, Kath," the doomed bride replied. The publicist groom whisked Wendy down an aisle sprinkled with rose petals and they exchanged the solemn vows they had written themselves.

"The preacher had just pronounced us man and wife and I leaned down to kiss Wendy in her chair," said the heartsick widower.

"She looked up at me and smiled. Then she just collapsed and slid out of her chair.

"At first I thought she'd fainted, but as soon as I picked her up I knew I'd lost her — that my new bride was gone forever."

Salesgirls sell perfume, cologne...and THEMSELVES!

By JOE DIRGE

Hotty-toity Harrod's is the world's poshest department store. But the star attraction at Harrod's perfume counter isn't the overpriced eau de cologne — it's the slinky salesgirls who sell their bodies to the highest bidders!

Over the years, dozens of dazzling gals have discovered the sweet smell of success peddling perfume at the stuffy London, England, store and offering customers a little something extra — for up to $1,500 a night.

"The place was nothing but a meat market for wealthy Arabs or rich men of any sort, really," said naughty Neola Cantrell, who worked for more than a year behind Harrod's gleaming glass counters.

"Some of the girls didn't even wait until after work to start their tricks — they'd bounce out and do it on their lunch hour.

"The management didn't approve, of course, but there was really very little they could do about it.

"We were all hoping that sooner or later we would land us one of those rich chaps to take care of us, and maybe even marry us."

Lining up a lousy lady at the perfume counter in the Queen's favorite store was as easy as scribbling your name and phone number on a sales slip or handing the salesgirl a business card, Neola said.

"Then it would be up to the girl to ring and negotiate a fee if they fancied the guy," she said. "Sometimes they were so fat and ugly we turned them down."

The hanky-panky got so hot and heavy a few months back that embarrassed bosses had to call in the cops to break up a department the girls call The Piranha Pit.

"The same old stuff is going on, but now the girls have to be a bit more careful," said Nicole, 24. "They simply don't make their calls on store telephones anymore."

Curvy Carolyn Arnett says sex starved men showered her with nearly $250,000 in money and presents before she gave up the perfume and peddling game last May.

"Money was no object," said the chic shady lady. "I could buy anything I wanted and I would think nothing of spending $1,500 on clothes.

Five kids were discovered living like a pack of wild animals in a filthy, roach-infested apartment speaking a garbled language that only they understood!

Like wild savages, the incredibly dirty youngsters roamed uncontrolled through the apartment, drinking soured milk from a baby bottle, and eating moldy bread and spoiled spaghetti.

"The children — ages 2 to 8 — had no sense of rules in the world and absolutely no discipline," said Detroit, Mich., protective services worker Virginia Kelly.

"Their speech was grossly underdeveloped and virtually impossible to understand," she said. "The two older boys could be understood only with great effort and with no distinctions or noise."

The two boys and three girls were taken [illegible] after their 6-month-old sister Kimberly died of an untreated ear infection.

A warrant has been issued charging the mother, Mildred Henderson, with neglectful homicide in the death of her daughter.

"The children were so ignorant and spoke to each other in words that only they could understand," explained Marguerite Ambagtsheer, a spokesman for the Michigan Department of Social Services.

"Their pronunciation, use of words and sentence structure is their own idea of the English language — even the two older boys who are in school," she said.

A social worker testified at a court hearing that the children ran nearly through a rooker home and were aggressive and difficult to control. She said they spoke only to each other.

Police found the kids in a [illegible] filthy house littered with dirty clothes, human feces, no running water and no food.

The 2-year-old girl was drinking from a baby bottle filled with sour milk.

One of the children reached up on the stove and pulled off a piece of rotting food and handed it to her little sister to eat," a cop testified.

Mrs. Henderson had been receiving welfare money and food stamps until her children were taken away.

The mother had no complaint and made [illegible] of support, said Mrs. [illegible]

Their mother was neglected by their mother to the point of desperation," said a Juvenile Court referee in recommending foster care.

He said Emmanuel Foster, the father of two of the children, had also neglected them and didn't do enough to protect them.

Another daughter was taken away from Mrs. Henderson nine years ago because of possible neglect and placed for adoption.

Court records said the little girl, who was 3, was "failing to thrive."

Mrs. Henderson and the children lived with Foster and water on the stove, he said.

CULT leader Terry Belcher raises an oath on the Bible and then tells jury a shocking story of ritual murder

By JACK ALEXANDER

Two teenage devil worshipers were trying to please Satan when they ate the eyeballs and innards of animals they slaughtered — and sacrificed a beautiful teenage girl.

After swearing on a Bible to tell the truth, cult leader Terry Belcher told a shocked jury how he and Robert McIntyre strangled Theresa Simmons, 17, and performed a crude ritual over her lifeless body.

Belcher and McIntyre said it could well meet the devil head-on in hell after serving life terms in prison for the murder of Miss Simmons.

Both teens were convicted and sentenced in prison after a jury in Douglas County (Ga.) heard hours of grisly testimony from the admitted killers.

Belcher testified he and nine other members of the evil cult butchered dogs, cats and chickens with a sacrificial knife.

"Then they toasted the devil by drinking the animals' blood and eating their entrails and eyeballs," said assistant State Atty. David McTeer.

Cult members who refused to participate in the gruesome ceremony were beaten.

The rituals were performed "for power, a ritual the taste of blood," Belcher testified.

"I got money, power, sex, drugs, anything I wanted," he said.

"It was easier to get 'em. It was like Satan helped you get 'em."

Miss Simmons got involved in the cult when she ran away from a home for juveniles. Belcher allowed her to stay at his grandmother's house with another teen, Melisa Barnett.

charge. But when she refused to have sex with McIntyre she angered her new death warrant.

The two boys strangled her with a leather bootlace after getting psyched up listening to heavy metal rock music by Ozzy Osbourne. Belcher testified.

Osbourne was one of his favorite musicians, Belcher told the jury. "He sings about Satan and he sings about never-ever bombs," Belcher said.

After choking over the young girl's corpse in hopes of summoning the devil, Belcher and McIntyre dragged her body into the woods and left it there.

Most geniuses a little wacko

Many of the world's great and minds were a little wacko, say researchers, which proves that madness is linked to genius.

A survey by the Inventors Association of Connecticut revealed car pioneer Henry Ford dyed his hair with rusty water.

Ben Franklin used to strip naked and take air baths sitting by an open window.

Editors: Your attitude toward homosexuality is outrageous! It's amazing that in these supposedly enlightened times, people like you are allowed to spew your bigotry across the country.

I've read your paper for the past year and I've seen you take every opportunity to refer to gays as fags and homos and queers — always in such a way that it looks like you might be joking.

You had a real hoot with the story about Sherlock Holmes being gay, didn't you?

The latest bit of nonsense about gays was in your story of the 1,000-year-old scroll that supposedly predicts the course of human events until the end of time.

Turned to stone with all the other so-called eyewitness events of the future was the prediction that AIDS will eradicate the last of the homosexual population by 2013.

I'll bet you anything you just made that one up as one more in your long line of scary, erratic, mean gays and it wasn't even on the scroll. Because unlike you, God doesn't hate gays. So why would He eliminate homosexuals in 2013 like your story says? Tell me that. — P.T., San Francisco, Calif.

10 ways to tell if your bride is an ex-guy

The shocking revelation that a growing number of sex-change surgeons is enough to make any guy wonder if the woman in his life might have been a man. Here's how to tell for sure.

1 Next time you kiss, take a good look at her throat. If she's got an Adam's apple, you've got a problem. (She may have Adam's apple removed, but that's one thing no sex-change doctors can do.)

2 Cleavage can be created in the operating room, but it may not look quite right. Is her bosom too full, too perfect? Her breasts will remain after intercourse, but if they're artificial, they'll probably deflate 24 hours or so after sex. Is your girl's bra size the same as it was before you met her?

3 Check out her eyebrows. If she's had hair implants, there'll be a thick, unnatural line where the hairs start growing. Also, look for scars behind the ears. Is her hairline natural?

4 Take a good, hard look at her face. Does she have a square jaw, a heavy brow ridge or prominent cheekbones? Is she trying to cover up a shadow on her upper lip? Does she have a deep voice? Is she tall? Big hands? Big feet? Does she wear a size 12 shoe or larger? Is she a natural blonde? Does she have a deep voice? Does she have a deep voice? Does she have a deep voice

The most important geologic event in recorded history

Atlantis rises from the sea!

MONSTER oil rigs now stand in the waters of the North Sea from it as map below shows where the Lost Continent of Atlantis is emerging

By SARAH BURN

A geologist says Atlantis is rising in the North Sea and will totally resurface within 10 years!

"This might well be the most important geologic event in recorded history," Dr. Marc Appel told reporters in Ryswyk, Holland.

"We're actually going to be able to study Atlantis firsthand in our lifetimes. Relics and the remains of cities will tell us just how advanced the ancient civilization really was.

"We'll also learn about the people who lived there — and find out what happened to them when their island sank in the North Sea."

Scientist says lost continent will totally resurface by 1998

Dr. Appel's report came as a complete shock to some scientists, but the expert presented an ample body of evidence to support his claims.

For starters, he said a portion of the floor of the North Sea has been rising at a rate of six inches a year since 1968.

And computer projections indicate that the pace is going to quicken on a geometric scale — allowing the underwater land mass to surface within 10 years.

"The continent is confined to an area slightly larger than the island of Bermuda," said Dr. Appel. "But even Atlantis is largely than that.

"But I'm sure we'll see a much larger land mass beginning to rise within a few years."

Underwater probes have found even more evidence to suggest that area really is the Lost Continent of Atlantis.

According to Dr. Appel, the submarines and still photographs show the barnacle-encrusted remains of buildings and roads.

"It's too early to be much more than speculative," said Dr. Appel.

"But the architecture of these buildings seems to have a Greek look, which is precisely the look we would expect to find on Atlantis."

Viking Larsen, the Norwegian archaeologist, thinks Dr. Appel might be "pathetically the gals with his prediction. "I'm fully aware of what is happening in the North Sea," he told reporters.

"But that doesn't mean Atlantis is rising up to greet us."

Dumb luck solved the puzzle

POLICE Lt. Gary Edwards holds the wanted poster that solved his 4-year riddle.

Supercop finally gets his man!

By PETE COOKE

Lt. Gary Edwards knew there was something strange about the guy in the flashy Ferrari who lived in a middle class neighborhood and paid cash for everything, but it took the suspicious cop four years of digging and a stroke of luck to solve the riddle.

FUGITIVE Steven Hadley is now facing 25 years in prison

The strange case began in July 1983, when Steven Hadley, manager of a credit union in Waterloo, Iowa, kissed his wife goodbye and took off with two cardboard boxes filled with $1.1 million of his company's money.

A year later and still safely away in Friendswood, Texas, a patrolman spotted a new Ferrari that just didn't belong. So in among the stolen wallets and packages of the missing clean responsible south of Houston.

The officer thought it odd enough to mention to one of his superiors, Lt. Edwards, who did a little checking of his own and didn't like what he found.

The $81,000 car registered to Richard G Finley had been paid for in cash. So had Finley's $70,000 home in Friendswood.

The man had also paid $30,000 cash for an Alfa Romeo sports car.

Edwards found that while Finley seemed to have an awful lot of money, he didn't have a job.

Next Edwards checked with the state's bureau of vital statistics and discovered that the real Richard Finley died two days after he was born in 1948. It was clear that Richard Finley was not who he claimed to be, but who he was and what he was pursuing was a mystery.

"The case was our lowest priority because we had no idea," Edwards said.

But Edwards and other officers kept an ear cocked everywhere for clues to Finley's real identity, even going through the mystery man's garbage can.

Then the cops got lucky. Wendy Bailey, a producer for the syndicated series Crimestoppers, prepared a story about Steven Hadley the Iowa credit union manager who disappeared with more than a million dollars in cash. Just before the show was to air, an FBI agent acting on a suggestion by Crimestoppers decided to send a flyer with Hadley's picture to police agencies around the country.

When the flier landed on Edwards' desk in Friendswood, Tex., the mystery of Richard G Finley's true identity was solved.

"I knew in an instant, in the first millisecond, that it was Richard Glenn Finley," said Edwards.

"I called my captain and said, 'I know who Richard Glenn Finley is.'"

Hadley is now in federal custody in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where he is serving a mandatory sentence of 25 years in prison after entering guilty pleas to charges of bank theft, interstate transportation of stolen money and using false information to obtain a passport.

Authorities say they expect to recover about $800,000 of the money Hadley stole.

Dopey lunch

A little girl generously passed spiritual portions of a great liver wurst had packed in her backpack, cops say — a chunk of sausage the size of a golf ball!

The 7-year-old Los Angeles child and eight of her friends became ill after eating the delicacy, but all recovered after getting to police. Cops arrested the girl's mother, Maria Torres, 30.

Now there's a lucky dog

Adam, a determined Doberman, howled, growled and barked for three straight weeks before being rescued from an open sewer drain he'd fallen into.

Debbie Lagos of Scituate, Mass., said her 3-year-old dog lost 30 pounds during the ordeal and was only "ribs and bones" by the time he was finally rescued.

Teenagers Eddie and Wendy Moore said they heard the growling and barking, but it took them weeks to convince their parents that there really was a dog in the sewer.

Mrs Grynberg added: "Now Warren knows that making can damage your health!"

Thieves steal roof off church

Cops in Mansfield, La., say thieves twisted the tin roof off a rural church and sold the metal for scrap.

Melton said portions of the tin roof from the Oak Grove Baptist Church turned up at scrap yards in the area.

Farmer tries to blast crop-dusting plane out of the sky, cops say

A cranky old codger grabbed his rifle and opened fire on a crop-dusting plane he thought was burning his farm lands, cops said.

Two shots fired by Russell Brubaker, 78, were on target, one of them narrowly missing the pilot's head cash, according to cops in Milton, Fla.

Pilot James Wells said he wasn't aware anyone was shooting at the Cessna 188 Ag-Truck until he landed and saw the bullet holes.

Brubaker was charged with firing his .22 rifle into an occupied aircraft. He could be fined $5,000 and sent to prison for five years.

Housewife Pauline Kenner tried to use a pay phone and wound up glued to the receiver for four hours.

It seems someone had smeared superglue on the public phone as a joke and Pauline, 38, was the unsuspecting victim.

The Derby, England, woman said she tried for half an hour to get her head off the telephone and finally dialed police for help.

"I could hear them laughing at the other end," she said.

Cops rushed her to a hospital where it took doctors over three hours to remove the receiver from her hand.

"People say I'm always on the phone," the young mom laughed later.

"And how true that was this time!"

Farmers get better milk by feeding candy to cows

Animal expert William Flickinger is helping dairy farmers save money and churn out better milk — by feeding candy bars to their cows.

The Pennsylvania nutritionist is an adviser to 80 dairy farmers who've started feeding their beasties up to eight pounds of chocolate every day.

The chocolate is cheaper than other cow food, the cows love it and it improves the butterfat content of their milk, Flickinger says.

The Pennsylvania farmers drive their trucks up to the nearby Hershey plant and load them with damaged candy bars or bars that fail to meet the rigid Hershey standards.

They pay less per ton than they pay for corn.

Cops make groom prove he's ■ guy

By DICK BONDVAN

A West German groom had to prove more than his love before he could marry the girl of his dreams — he had to prove he was a man!

Maybe it was just his heavy makeup, but officials in Aabenraa, Denmark, thought he looked more than just a tad feminine.

A cop led the poor guy into a private room and put him to the proof-of-the-pudding test.

"Prove you're a male," the cop demanded.

"He was a man and we married the couple," city spokesman Thiset Nielsen said. "He took it quite well, considering."

"We just had to make sure."

Live in Mexico on $14 a Day

One million Americans live in Mexico—more than any other place in the world. Why do so many Americans live in Mexico? Here's why:

• Living costs—They are ridiculously low. Recent peso devaluations make Mexico one of the cheapest places to live in the entire world. Many Americans live comfortably on a small pension or social security.

• The climate—It's comfortable year round. And most parts of Mexico are unspoiled with beautiful, clear, warm waters, green mountains, and colorful flowers.

• Live in a community of other Americans. There are many retirement havens in Mexico only a short distance from the U.S. where Americans live comfortably on a minimal income.

The book Living Easy in Mexico describes American settlements and communities throughout Mexico. It covers all retirement havens, like side villages nestled in the mountains, sleepy fishing villages alongside the ocean, and modern cities having a large community of Americans. The book tells you how to get to these retirement havens, the American living styles, climate, cost of living, housing, recreation, adventures, disadvantages, and which communities to avoid.

The book gives you practical facts on living in Mexico—health care, laws, travel, customs, food and water, obtaining a home, and getting money. The author spent 20 years living and traveling throughout Mexico. The book contains plenty of photographs so you can see for yourself the beauty of these retirement havens. Whatever kind of retirement living you want, Mexico has something to offer you.

Living in Mexico is cheap. For about $14 a day, each, two people can live in a spacious home, eat good food, have a cook, housekeeper and gardener, and still have money left over for entertainment or savings.

If you're fed up with high living costs, bad weather, congestion, pollution, too much stress and tension, consider Mexico as tens of thousands of Americans are already doing.

Get all the facts. Order Living Easy in Mexico today. Send only $12.95 plus $1 postage and handling to United Research Publishers, 308 North Highway 101, Dept. WLA-9, Encinitas, CA 92024. You can return the book within

A North Western Railway locomotive chugged right over the luckless lady, but incredibly she survived the ordeal.

Doctor Discovers Cure For PSORIASIS

For years I sympathized with patients who were forced to live with the pain and embarrassment of Psoriasis.

Worse yet those who tried to find relief by visits to doctors, dermatologists – who have tried creams, medicines and special treatments – have sooner or later been told there is no cure.

Medicine has been of no real help for many people, for either the physical or mental aspects of this affliction. But today, because of my new discovery, the Psoriasis sufferer can finally receive the help he or she has been hoping for.

NO MORE ITCHING, NO MORE SCALES!...

As one sufferer related, "I couldn't go out dancing or wear dresses because I was so ashamed and embarrassed. I went to doctors and dermatologists, used creams, took shots, slept in plastic suits. But there was no change. Then I started Dr Connolly's program and early in October I was clear."

Another typical sufferer had been told there was no cure for Psoriasis. "I thought I'd go crazy. I was skeptical but in one month scales are virtually all gone, the redness has disappeared and I have more pep."

HERE'S THE ANSWER

Let me explain that the revolutionary approach involves the relatively new field of Bioenergetics. This has to do with the energy systems of the body and how it is affected by health and disease. Conventional treatment for Psoriasis focuses on the effects of the disease. My plan and Psoriasis for good because it stops the cause.

Questions Most Often Asked!

Q. Why haven't other methods worked?

A. The answer is simple. Most Doctors treat only the effects. Our method gets right to the cause. Your skin is not the cause of Psoriasis. It is just where the end result appears.

Q. What makes your method so different?

A. All other Psoriasis treatments bring temporary relief at best. Because they treat the effects of Psoriasis rather than the cause, they ultimately fail. Our method stops the cause. And that's why it is so successful.

Q. What is your success rate?

A. 95% of Psoriasis cases that have been treated by our method work, so the odds are overwhelming in your favor that our

[illegible] false teeth at sewer after they fell in the [illegible]

FLUSHED CHOPPERS FOUND!

By JACK ALEXANDER

A toothless retiree thought his dentures were lost forever when he accidentally flushed them down the toilet — but he got 'em back nine months later.

"I bleached the brown off of them and gave them back to his wife," said Walter Kilton, sewage plant manager in Machias, Maine.

The man's excited wife rushed into Kilton's office last August and begged him to find her hubby's uppers floating somewhere in the city's sewer system.

"I thought she was kidding but the look on her face told me she wasn't," said Kilton. "I said, 'Lady, do you know what the odds are of finding it?'"

Kilton explained all sewage that entered the plant went through a larger set of chompers — a toothsome grinder — before it was processed.

But husband's uppers were probably already chewed up.

"But she was insistent and wanted them back no matter what," said Kilton.

Sewer plant workers found the false teeth nine months later while cleaning out a 14-foot grit chamber that keeps rocks and gravel out of the treatment system.

"You can imagine what they looked like," said Kilton. "I wanted them in bleach but couldn't get them completely clean."

The grateful wife packed up the uppers and thanked Kilton. "She said her husband needed 'em. He says I'm put them in my mouth."

Starving baby eats diaper

A 10-month-old baby who eventually starved to death was so hungry toward the end he ate his own diaper.

Pieces of the diaper were found in the tot's stomach after he died en route to a hospital in London, England, of severe malnutrition.

Little Dean Scott weighed only 9½ pounds at the time of his death — about half his normal weight. His brother, Michael, was also taken to the hospital.

The last thing Dean ate was a piece of his own diaper, said prosecutor Ken Amiot.

Amiot said the two youngsters lived in an apartment with their parents Frederick Scott and Susan Pinder who weighed 280 and 196 respectively.

There was virtually no food for Dean or Michael in the apartment, but authorities found two cans of dog food there for the family's pet mutt, said Amiot.

The parents have pleaded not guilty to murdering Dean and to two charges

"He struck and got one fang into the top of my left foot between my toes," said Mrs. Jones, of Stillwater, Okla.

Before long, the young woman acted so badly that she felt like her toes "were going to fall off."

She was hospitalized overnight, but declined that her Saturday wedding was off, pain or not.

"My uncle and my father helped me down the aisle," said Mrs. Jones. And because she couldn't stand, she exchanged vows while sitting in a white wicker chair!

I SAW A VIRGIN SACRIFICED — IN THE NAME OF SATAN

By DICK DONOVAN

Europe's most infamous Queen of Witches, Marion Unsworth, has told how a satanic high priest carried out a ritual sacrifice to the Devil — by plunging a dagger into the naked body of a 16-year-old virgin!

In a shocking revelation of her evil past, Marion, now a born-again Christian, has lifted the lid on the ghastly horrors committed by satanists worshiping in secret covens throughout England.

The blonde mother of three said the whitelight virgin died in her ghastly death in a ceremony in a graveyard in the English countryside at a coven of witches and warlocks chanted dark prayers to the Devil.

"She was wearing only an open robe and a mask made from bird wings," Marion said. "She was laid down on a large flat tombstone that served as the altar.

"Then the high priest raised the sacrificial dagger and plunged it into the girl's bare breast and she was dead. It was appalling."

Marion, whose former home in Bedfordshire was the headquarters for a satanist cult with thousands of members, also told of another grotesque ritual she witnessed on London's Highgate Cemetery.

"Members of the cult dug up the corpse of a woman," she recalled, her deep, cold-blue eyes clearly showing the revulsion that swept over her at the memory.

"She had been buried only a month before and they did unspeakable things to her.

"I have seen satanists who are capable of doing anything — no matter how destructive, cruel or horrible."

She said as Queen of Witches she would often be asked by lovers entitled to put death curses on people they wanted exterminated.

"We would prepare a doll and the explained. "But we would sometimes get something from the intended victim — a lock of hair or a photograph. Some of those we refused did die.

"I've seen what the powers of darkness can do to people," she added. "Satanists are sick in the head. They will do their master's evil bidding — without question."

But Marion has put that hellish world behind her. She stepped down from her throne, renounced her title of Queen of Witches and shuttered her temple in Bedfordshire.

Tragic outing claims lives of two scouts

BIZARRE DROWNING STILL A MYSTERY

DROWNED FIRST: Luis Luis was wading in a lake when tragedy struck.

GRIEF-STRICKEN Cub Scout Joel Nieves couldn't bear the loss of his buddy Luis.

Cub Scout Joel Nieves became hysterical when he saw the near-lifeless body of his camping buddy pulled from a lake — and when no one was watching, he ran into the water and drowned!

And while his 8-year-old pal Luis Luis was losing his futile battle for life in a Staten Island, N.Y., hospital, police divers were scouring the muddy waters of Lake Orbach, searching for Joel's body.

There was little doctors could do to save Luis and he died that night in the hospital. The heartbreaking search for Joel ended the following morning when his body was found lying on the lake bottom a scant 20 feet from shore.

The mystery of Joel's death and a terrible ending for what had started out as a fun-packed Cub Scout weekend at a Catskills camp practically within sight of the goliath skyscrapers of New York City.

Though the lack of a lifeguard had brought a stern warning in the rulebook — Rule 74 not to go into the lake — some of the boys dashed to wash their feet on their warm and lazy day.

They had waded out to a spot where the water was up to their waists. Suddenly, Joel and Luis found themselves in trouble.

Other scouts managed to get Joel back to shore, but Luis had slipped out of sight in the murky waters. The other waders began screaming for help and other scouts in the area ran to the lake and began a frantic search.

Boy Scout Ray Griffin found the boy 15 minutes later while dragging his hands across the bottom.

"I grabbed him by the hair," 13-year-old Griffin said. "His left hand was in the mud. His head was in the mud. He was about 10 feet under."

Griffin and another scout got Luis back to shore and gave the unconscious boy CPR until paramedics arrived and rushed him to the hospital.

Standing alone at the edge of the lake, Joel struggling down his equipment chocks. Joel struggled with the story of anguish that flooded over him. Griffin walked over to the boy and put a hand on his shoulder.

"Be cool, Joel," he told the boy. "It wasn't your fault. Everything is going to be all right."

"I was supposed to be down there with him," Joel sobbed back.

Then he walked off into the woods. When he was missed a few hours later, an all-out search was launched.

Throughout the night scuba divers scoured the lake bottom while others, including young boys and girls, combed the woods.

Finally, at about 9:45 a.m. the following day, Joel Nieves described by friends as "a good student in the mean streets of Brooklyn," was pulled from the water.

Accidental Discovery May End Obesity

Blocks calorie absorption

SWEDEN — Medical researchers at the University of Skolpio, in Finland, have discovered incidentally a new weight-loss formula. The new discovery enables an overweight individual to lose pounds and fatty tissue without dieting or exercise.

Scientists made the discovery while searching for a formula to lower cholesterol. In a controlled study of a test group of people, cholesterol levels remained unchanged but the doctors were astounded to find that every patient who used the formula lost weight. The published report of the study stated, "A highly significant decrease in body weight was seen" in patients who received the formula.

The formula was then tested at Sweden at Seligren Hospital, University of Goteborg. Again, all patients had a substantial amount of weight even though they did not change their eating habits. The report detailing the study, published in the British Journal of Nutrition, stated: "Body weight was significantly reduced even though the patients were specifically asked not to alter their dietary habits." One patient lost as much as more than 40 pounds.

According to the informed source, the new supplement comes from a little known botanical source and contains no drugs or stimulants. When taken before meals it binds with the food you eat and "ties up" calories preventing their absorption.

A substantial portion of the calories ingested therefore pass through the digestive system undigested. The body has to get energy to replace the lost calories, so it starts to burn excesses. The result is rapid body weight loss. Extensive clinical tests have verified the safety of this formula for long term use.

The formula is marketed at tablet form in the United States under the trade name Cal-Ban 3000. A firm located in Tampa, Florida, has exclusive North American distribution rights. A review of the customer files of this concern revealed the names of hundreds of people who have lost up to 10 pounds the first week and as much as 20, 30 or 40 or more pounds overall with Cal-Ban 3000. This is a great opportunity for people who are plagued by fat and cellulite that they can't seem to lose by conventional methods.

Cal-Ban 3000 is normally priced at $19.95 for a 1-week supply and $39.95 for a two-week supply. Postage and handling is $3. To insure fastest service, orders are accepted by toll-free phone only. VISA, MasterCard, American Express C.O.D. orders are accepted. C.O.D.'s are $2.00 extra. Others may be placed by calling Addiction Pharmacia TOLL-FREE 1-800-328-3133. # Miracle box saves baby 15 times

By GAFI KLINGER

Plucky baby Sophie English almost died 15 times during the four short months since her birth — but her life was saved each time by a miracle box.

Sophie, of Crawley, England, is hooked up to a special monitor that screams a lifesaving alarm when her blood gets low in oxygen. The alarm tells her parents that her tiny lungs are collapsing and unless she gets a good shake, she'll stop breathing and die.

The revolutionary monitor was developed by docs at London's Brompton Hospital and is far superior to older monitors which only sound after the child stops breathing.

Experts say it is often too late by then, to save a baby from the terrifying killer syndrome known as crib death.

Little Sophie became a prime candidate for crib death when she was born nearly a months premature and weighing only 3½ pounds.

"The alarm went off as Rusty often when we first took her home because oxygen was not getting through to her lungs," recalled Sophie's mum Sally. "We had to shake her to stimulate them into working properly."

Just two weeks ago, Sophie gave her parents their biggest scare. The monitor kept going off alerting them to a critical breathing problem.

"Thankfully, the monitor is so sensitive that it gave us 12 hours' warning that Sophie was having major breathing problems."

ALARMING SITUATION — Mum Sally English and daughter Sophie pose with box that kept the baby alive.

The Dallas Tex., 3-year-old has just been fitted with her first pair of artificial eyes to replace the organs destroyed by cancer. She's totally blind, yet the courageous tyke sees only the best in life.

"She has a special being about her — she doesn't give up," the little girl's proud mother Rachel said. The NEWS. "Her attitude is great. She enjoys everything.

"She dances, she plays the piano. I want her to grow up as a normal kid. I don't want her to hide in a corner."

Celia was just 1 year old when doctors discovered she had retinoblastoma, a cancer of the eye. They removed her right eye and treated her with radiation and chemotherapy hoping they could save her left eye.

But last February the child underwent surgery again for removal of her remaining eye. The cancer had begun to grow and doctors feared it would spread to her brain. Reluctantly, her parents agreed to the disfiguring operation.

"Celia put her little hands on our faces and told us not to cry," Mrs. Garay recalled. "She told us the moon would watch over her because it didn't have any eyes either.

"It was a tough decision, but she has adjusted real well. Doctors think she's gonna be just fine now."

Today the prognosis is excellent for Celia. She has enrolled in school and when she's not busy there, she takes dance and music lessons, plays in her sandbox and colors pretty pictures for her mom and her father Mario.

A month ago, the child was fitted for a new pair of brown eyes that won't help her see but will give her more normal looks.

"She likes her eyes," Mrs. Garay said. "I tell her they are like two little sunbeams in her eyes. That they're going to shine on everyone.

"I haven't told her she's blind. I haven't said to her that she can't see. I tell her she can only see out color and

Poll: Younger guys don't vote for gals in politics

Younger men won't vote for female candidates because they feel threatened by gals, says a fascinating new survey.

Meanwhile, older men who are experiencing a "personal mid-life crisis" don't feel that threatened by ambitious women and are likely to vote for a female candidate, said the report released at the 36th Western St. Salt Lake City Utah. According to the survey, female candidates can't expect support from older women who frown on women holding traditional male posts and younger men who feel they are in competition with gals in the job market.

Meanwhile, pollsters older men and younger women with more modern views are likely

Woman who feared old age drowns herself in a well

A distraught beauty — terrified that she was turning old and wrinkled — threw herself into the well in her backyard and drowned while her loving family slept.

The tragic incident has lowered a veil of gloom over the English village of Templeton where Dorothy Waters lived and was famed as the local beauty. The tall slender woman was known as "the best-looking woman for miles around," noted deceased neighbor George Morgan.

Authorities believe the still attractive 56-year-old woman became desperate and terribly depressed over her looks. She recently had been dieting in an effort to retain her smashing figure.

and beautiful," said a friend. "She was very depressed about it. She thought she was too fat, but she wasn't at all. She was a very attractive woman."

In the middle of the night while her husband Allen and daughters Jane, 21, and Nicola, 19, were sleeping, Mrs. Waters crept out back, lifted the metal lid covering the well and jumped in.

Authorities believe she changed her mind about killing herself because she started screaming for her husband to help her.

Unfortunately, she was unable to keep her head above water long enough for rescuers to reach her and she

Wimps striking out with women nowadays

Hunks muscle in on the gals!

By SUSAN JIMISON

Wimps are out. Tough guys are in.

That's the conclusion of women-watchers around the country who have noticed a shift in the type of man that gals are going for these days.

They say the sensitive man is a thing of the past. What women want now is a cross between Arnold Schwarzenegger and Sly Stallone. Somebody tough, somebody strong — nobody stupid, even.

"Women are going away from the relaxed, super-sensitive man," matchmaking service manager Cheryl Brown told The NEWS. "They're becoming stronger and a man that's too sensitive seems wimpy to them.

"They want strength in a man so they can respect him," said Miss Brown.

"They need men to be less emotional and to make decisions. They want men who are stronger than they are themselves."

Miss Brown, who introduces 2,000 clients to potential mates for Matchmaking International in Palm Beach, Fla., says the trend toward the macho male began a few years ago. And it's showing no signs of fading, she said.

Around the country, other experts agree with her.

Sociologist Helen Weingarten thinks the trend toward brawnier brawn may have something to do with the lack of attractive options open to women.

"It's spring and the sap is rising," the University of Michigan professor of sexual work said. "You may want to find that person who you resonate with physically.

"I think women still may want men who are sensitive and intelligent, but given that the men you're meeting are more like a cross between Sylvester Stallone and a shoe, how do you align your expectations with that?"

WOMEN have switched their affections from wimps like Phil Donahue, right, to Rambo-style musclemen like Sly Stallone.

World's greatest fall guy

Daredevil dad Dale Nelson is the world's champion of skydiving with an incredible 801 jumps — in less than 24 hours.

The 38-year-old father of two teenagers went through six planes and 28 parachute packers in performing the extraordinary feat at a small airfield in Gibbertsville, Pa.

"It was an adrenaline rush all 24 hours," said Nelson, who averaged 44½ minutes per jump from 2,000 feet.

He surpassed the previous mark of 250 listed by the Guinness Book of World Records.

Huge growth made TUMOR

By JOE BERGER

Ailing baby Assan Fuzia had a tumor so huge she looked like a two-headed monster until skilled surgeons removed the hideous growth — and gave the brave babe a chance to live a healthy, happy life!

Tragic Assan was barely 3 months old when she was flown from her native Ethiopia to Pavia, Italy, for the delicate, three-hour operation.

"Part of the poor little girl's brain had actually grown into the tumor," said chief surgeon Dr. Pier Paoletti.

"The trickiest part of the surgery was transferring that portion of the brain into her head to allow us to remove the tumor."

Paoletti said the courageous baby could not have survived more than a week or two longer without the miracle surgery.

"She was already partially paralyzed," he said. "She couldn't move her limbs at all by the time she came to us. But as soon as she came out of anesthesia she could move around freely and that's when we knew we'd made it."

Plastic surgery performed at the same time will ensure that Assan, one of seven daughters of an Ethiopian Army officer, will bear no scars from her ordeal.

"Your little daughter is going to be a normal and pretty girl," Dr. Paoletti told her jubilant parents.

Fed up physician leaves medicine to open laundry

Dr. Joseph J. Merigo has given up his career as a medical man to go into the laundry business — because he's sick of paying outrageous malpractice insurance premiums.

Merigo, 50, left, worked as an anesthesiologist in hospitals across Massachusetts for 20 years before skyrocketing insurance costs forced his move from the operating room to the laundry room. His premiums had reached $33,000 a year, he said.

The doctor now spends his days waiting on customers at a dry-cleaning store in Hudson, Mass.

Patient slugs dentist!

Angry patient Tom Pickering did what a lot of people would like to do when a dentist touched a nerve while grinding a tooth. He punched him in the face.

Unfortunately, the pain-ridden patient went a bit too far and clubbed dentist Ian Galliford with a screwdriver, according to court testimony.

In his frenzy, Pickering also attacked Galliford's partner and slugged a receptionist, the court was told.

Terrified patients ran for their lives as Pickering, 35, waved the screwdriver at everyone in sight, said cops in Norwich, England.

When police arrived, the berserk patient knocked out one of them. Other officers used billyclubs to subdue him.

"He was like a wild man," said Galliford. "He leaped out of the chair and hit me before I knew what was happening."
